

← Teentoday.co.uk's Top 11 Albums of 2008 Girls Aloud – Out Of Control review →

Teentoday.co.uk's fave music vid in errrr... ages

Posted on December 18, 2010 by Rach Read

A moment please for the sheer epic-ness of Katy Perry's Hot N Cold. There is no real reason for posting this other than that the song is such quantities of amazing that a suitable adjective has not yet been created for it and the video is my favourite since Thriller.

Click 'continue reading' for our frame-by-frame breakdown of our favourite moments from the video.

First sign of oddity – unexplained male bridesmaid. Perry in veil thing also looks amazing.

Everyone simultaneously starts bopping at the altar when the intro kicks in, which makes me go slightly gooey inside. It's like a number from a musical except with the kind of rubbish dancing that would probably occur in real life and this is what ultimately makes this video magnificent.

Vicar throws a rudeboy pose. Excellent stuff.

Second sign of oddity – groom fells hotdog whilst Perry, in mad bride mode, races down the street

Extremely subtle Diesel product placement. Note how rest of the screencaps are somewhat blurry yet this one strangely isn't... hmmm... Having made the advertisers happy with the most boring part of the video, let's now really go mental...

A troupe of bride zombie dancers WITH BASEBALL BATS. Which they then dance with. Could the video possibly get any better?

Answer: Yes. One word – Mascara.

Now KP pops up on groom's phone (hello Nokia product placement!) with wonderfully unhinged look in her eyes doing everyone's patented move to whenever calling or phoning is mentioned in a song. She delightfully interprets 'rollercoaster' in a similar fashion.

Priceless look of utter resignation on groom's face as demented KP pops up again (this time with some fetching lime eyeshadow and cool dancers).

Sick of pop stars doing slick choreography? KP instead starts throwing shapes like a woman possessed – here, some variant of the funky chicken; later, smacking someone's arse and doing the limbo.

Zebra?!?!?!?

And, after all this madness, he still says yes!
The End.

Watch the video in full...

Do you know the symbolism of the zebra?! What are your fave music vids?

 Like  Be the first of your friends to like this.

0
tweets
tweet

About Rach Read

I am the Music/Style/Everything Else Olly Can Think Of Editor. I have been doing this for far too long. My ringtone is Girls Aloud and I miss The Spice Girls. I also have my own blog here.
View all posts by Rach Read →